Course Overview	Culture has a significant impact on people and institutions. Most of our communication is with people with whom we share a culture. In an intercultural setting there are many potentials for misunderstandings and conflict. Through a variety of pair, group and whole class activities, this course will provide ample opportunities for students to interact with people of their own and other cultures. In so doing, participants in the course will develop confidence in their speaking abilities, improve their communicative competence, and enrich their intercultural perspectives.
